THE OLDEST CITY IN THE WORLD

Damascus is the oldest city in the world. Tyre and Sidon have crumbled on the shore; Baalbec is a ruin; Palmyra is buried in a desert; Nineveh and Babylon have disappeared from the Tigris and Euphrates. Damascus remains what it was before the days of Abraham—a center of trade and travel—an isle of verdure in the desert, "a presidential capital," with martial and sacred associations extending through thirty centuries. It was near Damascus that Saul of Tarsus saw the brightness of the sun; the street which is called Strait, in which it is said "he prayed," still runs through the city. The caravan comes and goes as it did 3,000 years ago; there is still the sheik: the ass and the water-wheel; the merchants of the Euphrates and the Mediterranean still occupy the streets "with the multitude of their wares;" the city which Mohammed surveyed from a neighboring height, and was afraid to enter "because it was given to have but one paradise, and for his part he was resolved not to have it in this world" is to-day what Julian calls the "Eye of the East," as it was in the time of Isaiah, "The head of Syria." From Damascus came the damask, our blue plums, and the delicious apricot of Portugal called damasco; damask, our beautiful fabric of cotton and silk, with vines and flowers raised upon a smooth bright ground, the damask rose introduced into England in the time of Henry VIII, the Damascus blade, so famous the world over for its keen edge and wonderful elasticity, the secret of whose manufacture was lost when Tamerlane carried the artist into Persia, and that beautiful art of inlaying wood and steel with gold and silver, a kind of mosaic engraving and sculpture united—damaskeening—with which boxes, bureaus and swords were ornamented. It is still a city of flowers and bright waters, the streams of Lebanon and "silk of gold" murmur and sparkle in the wilderness of the Syrian gardens.

LORD DEWDROP'S PRECEPTS.

When the triangle had sounded the call to order and the rattling of many hoofs had ceased, Lord John Dewdrop arose and offered the club the use of the following at very reasonable rates:
"Doan" saw off de handles of your wheelbarrow to keep a naybar from borrowin' it."
"De man who loses his temper will be sartin to lose his friends."
"If it wasn't for gossins dar' would be no geese. Gin a boy a chance to be a gossin befo' expectin' him to be a gander."
"An egotist am a man on stilts. Let him alone and he am sartin to come down."
"Befo' praisin' de philanthropy of de man who has donated a site for an orphan asylum try an' diskiiber if his wife isn't doing de kitchen work to save de expense of a hired gal."
"De man who has no friends to speak well of him am a man to be avoided."
"Be guided in your outlay by what you kin afford—not by what your naybar brings home."
"Truth am mighty, but use it in small doses in criticizing de acts of your friends."
"De peacock may make a fine display of colors, but when it comes down to selecting something solid doan' oberlook de gander. He's de same all de way fere, an' you allus know what to find him."
"De man who drags his wallet to test de honesty of de public shooldn't give himself away by advertisin' a reward an' no questions axed."
On motion of Picoche Smith the club accepted the above at 39 per cent. of their face value, and the amount was passed to Lord John's credit on the cash book. (Detroit Free Press.)
In future the question asked by the fashionable world will not be, "How much is he worth?" but, "Does he keep a steam yacht?" (N. Y. Advertiser.)

MU-QUITOES IN MISSISSIPPI.

"Now, sir, answer me truthfully. Do you believe that six of your biggest musquitos could kill a mule if he was tied up out here?"
He looked at me in amazement for a minute, and then went to the door and beckoned in the man sitting on a box and watching the horses. When the man came in the native said:
"William, you remember that air roan mule o' yours?"
"I reckon."
"In perfect health, wasn't he?"
"He was."
"Could you like a deer and kick like a hog?"
"He could."
"And he was all alone in a ten-acre lot, William?"
"He was."
"And two of them mud-swamp 'skeeters got after him one mornin' and run him down and killed him, and devoured both hams and sucked every drop of blood in his body? William, speak up."

"Stranger, if they didn't, then, I hope to be chewed to rags," said William, and he said it exactly like a man who would not have allowed there were two 'skeeters if he hadn't been earnestly convinced of the fact. He walked out doors, and a deep silence fell upon us two, broken only after a long interval by the native saying:
"I've allus kinder suspected that them two 'skeeters had assistance from a hoss fly, but I can't prove it. I kinder think the hoss fly held him down while the murder was committed."

JOAQUIN MURRIETTA'S WIDOW.

The Livermore Valley Review says Maria Anna, the widow of Joaquin Murrietta, the noted California bandit, has a swarming colony of highway robbers and murderers at the head of Cantone creek, in Fresno county. It says:

"The plan to increase the number of converts to harbor all criminals, and protect them from the hands of the law. And every Spaniard or Mexican that accidentally strayed into camp or near it, to take them captive, confiscate their stock, jewelry, money, etc., and if they would not take the necessary oath, to lock them up by night and guard them by day, until they would take the 'robbers' oath' and become members of the band. This has been done, until to-day she reigns over a band of murderers, cut-throats and robbers that number over 300. Some four weeks ago Anton Roucher and an Italian started out looking for stock and fell into this camp. The she-devil took them prisoners and confiscated everything. Anton Roucher is still there, and his family are very anxious to have the authorities go after him and take him away from this hell-hole upon earth. Tuesday a Mexican spy came in and reported these facts, and also that Juarez, the escaped murderer from the Martinez jail, was among the gang, and that Ignacio Romero, his companion had died there after being shot by Constable Fitzgerald, and that the shot had penetrated one side and passed through him. Also that he saw several familiar faces of desperadoes, horse and cattle thieves among the gang, who are all well armed and fortified in their mountain stronghold. We would suggest to the authorities of Fresno, Merced, Santa Clara and Alameda, in fact our State officers, that they unite and capture this band and break up such a rendezvous for such a class of beings, and stop the raids upon the cattle and sheep men, stages and so much highway robbery."

Aurora has the finest ice factory in the world. In the old Del Monte workings, at a depth of 100 feet, two deserted tunnels intersect. There is a very strong draft coming through each tunnel, and meeting at the said point of intersection lowers the temperature clear beyond the freezing point. There is quite a sipage of water from the upper workings coming down, and as fast as it drops through, at all seasons of the year, ice forms. Near a city of any considerable population, this deserted supply of silver dollars than it ever did when worked for its legitimate output.

Confederate coin poses a much higher valuation than Confederate bonds in the South. The New Orleans Times-Democrat says that Oscar P. Taylor of Welsh City Ark., owns a Confederate half-dollar, one of only four which were ever struck off, for which he has been offered and refused $1,000. He is holding the piece in the belief that it will bring more money. The three companion half-dollars are said to be somewhere in the North, in the hands of persons who are supposed to be retaining them as curiosities.
